

1000 DAYS OF WAR IN UKRAINE

February 20, 2025, will mark three years since the war in Ukraine began. Children and adolescents living through the ongoing conflict still face daily struggles. Many have lost their homes and families. Their sense of safety is measured in moments.

For nearly two decades, ChildVoice has helped vulnerable children heal from conflict-based trauma, escape generational poverty, avoid exploitation, and build new futures. Now, we're bringing hope and healing to Ukraine and Moldova, working with partners in-country to serve traumatized young people by helping to create safe spaces where they can heal and learn invaluable life skills.

We invite you to watch our short documentary film 1,000 Days of War in Ukraine to learn about the many challenges young Ukrainians are facing amid the ongoing war, and see how ChildVoice is just beginning to help them reclaim their futures—one story at a time.

ChildVoice

restoring the voices of children silenced by war

Founded in 2006, ChildVoice acts on the conviction that children broken by war can be restored in safe, therapeutic settings with loving care, spiritual and emotional counseling, and effective education and vocational training. This is accomplished through both community-based and center-based programs. Our ultimate goal is that every child will be equipped to reintegrate back into their community, being self-sufficient as they pursue their future goals in life.
